The perks of the 6-month reset

EXPLORE THE TACTICAL ADVANTAGES OF REFRESHING YOUR BUFFER TWICE A YEAR

Looking to manage downside risk without waiting a full year to refresh your protection level? AllianzIM U.S. Equity 6 Month Buffer10 ETFs seek a buffer against the first 10% of market drawdowns, with upside exposure to a cap – and they reset every 6 months.

Unlike 12-month buffered ETFs that only reset once a year, six-month resets move your starting point, or zero line, twice as often. What does this mean for investors? By resetting every six months, investors can realize gains more frequently in an up market, while the buffer softens the volatility investors might experience during challenging market conditions.

LADDER MULTIPLE 6-MONTH ETFs FOR EVEN MORE OPPORTUNITIES

When you hold more than one 6-month Buffer10 ETF in a portfolio, you can stagger your resets for additional diversification to the S&P 500® within an allocation. This approach allows you to spread reset intervals, so that not all ETFs reset simultaneously.

Want a fresh buffer and new cap every quarter? You can ladder just two six-month funds to experience quarter-to-quarter resets. Staggering resets lets you create a dynamic sequence that can help your portfolio remain well-positioned to respond to varying market conditions.

6-MONTH OUTCOME PERIODS CAN PROVIDE:

More frequent resets to help keep portfolios aligned with market opportunities

The potential for a greater level of downside mitigation with a 10% buffer over a shorter period

More opportunities for tactical applications in portfolios

A tool for managing equity risk or an alternative to traditional fixed income

Potential for staggered resets by laddering two or more funds

An options contract is an agreement between a buyer and seller that gives the purchaser of the option the right, but not the obligation, to buy (in the case of a call option), or to sell (in the case of a put option), a particular asset at a specified future date at an agreed upon price (commonly known as the "strike price").

The funds are classified as non-diversified and may invest a relatively high percentage of their assets in a limited number of issuers.
